Meat Rationing May Be Forced By U.S. Action

By CHESTER BLOOM

OTTAWA, March 21-The Canadian government has under serious consideration the matter of again placing meat under ration-ing in Canada, it was learned from authoritative sources yesterday. At the moment, statis-tics are being studied covering not only available shipping space to Britain, but also the warehouse and transport situation in Canada.

According to Donald Gordon, head of the Wartime Price and Trade Board, the reason why meat rationing was removed in Canada on February 29, 1944, was due to a combination of short shipping space, overloaded Canadian cold storage warehouses and shortage of railway transportation.

SPOILAGE FEARED

The result was a large and accumulating surplus of meat in Canada. Rationing was removed to avoid spoilage.

"The question of whether ration ing of meat is to be re-imposed in Canada," said Mr. Gordon, "is a matter of government policy on which I have no authority to speak. All I can say is that so far, at least all our commitments to send mea to Britain are being steadily carrie out. Naturally, if it is decided to increase our commitments of meat to Britain, then more transport and shipping space will be required. As to the details of that, I do not have the information at the moment."

From another source, however, it was learned that the depart-ments of trade and commerce, agriculture and transport are all conducting studies on the immediate situation.

The guiding factor at the moment was the decision in the United States to reduce lend lease shipments of meat to Britain by 87½ per cent. This huge cut caused great alarm in Britain and the British authorities are naturally turn-ing to Canada for whatever relief this country can give in the situa-

STRONGLY STRESSED

This point was strongly stressed in a radio broadcast Monday night by Dr. G. S. H. Barton, deputy minister of agriculture. Hog marketings, said Mr. Barton, by the end of this month will be 32 per cent less that in the same quarter of 1944.

Under such circumstances, it appears a foregone conclusion that if meal shipments to Britain are to be increased, it is necessary to at once reimpose severe rationing of meat in Canada. The United States government has forced our hand.

Paying As We Go

The budget now before the City Council proposes that Edmonton spend $5,217,472

this year-without borrowing any money. It is true that the relatively small amount which it is proposed to charge against specific properties as frontage taxes to be collected over a term of years would be made immediately available by issuing bonds in that amount. But this is only a financing device to enable the improvements to be made. Even this would not be necessary if the property-owners concerned should see fit to put up the money in advance and so save the interest charges they will otherwise have to meet.

There is no creation of new general city debt involved in the proposals. Which means there is no increase planned in the interest charges borne by the taxpavers at large, therefore no threat of increased tax bills in the future. On the contrary, there is provision for paying off $950,000 of outstanding bonds and interest charges.

The whole amount of the budget, less of course the local improvement tax item. is covered by current revenue and funds on hand. Rather striking testimony to the ability of Edmonton to carry on without incurring debt.

Canada at 'Frisco

Looking ahead to the San Francisco conference, parliament is being asked to do five things:

1. Approve the acceptance of an invitation to send a delegation.

2. Express an opinion that an international security organization should be formed, with Canada a member-nation.

3. Approve the Dumbarton Oaks proposals as a general basis for discussion. 4. Say that Canada's delegates should work for the preparation of a charter for the security organization. 5. Declare that the charter, if one is drawn, must be submitted to parliament

The members should not need much time or much debate to reach unanimous decision on these points. The country would be bound to nothing except to send a delegation which would take an intelligent part in the discussions, with the Dumbarton Oaks proposals as a starting point just because there has to be a starting point if the conference is to go anywhere.

The delegates will have no power to commit the Dominion to anything. Which is to say, democratic procedure is to be followed from start to finish.

If this program isn't satisfactory, what have we been fighting this war for?

Convenience Doesn't Count

Ottawa has decided that we shall have to put up with the inconvenience of daylight-saving time yet awhile. To go back to standard time, it is said, would interfere with war work because there would be power shortages in Quebec, Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia.

As the statement is positive, it is to be assumed the officials have facts and figures and expert calculations which establish the conclusion that more power would be used if the clocks were set back and work started an hour later in the day.

That being the case, the chap who has to turn on the lights when he gets up in the morning but knocks off work while it is still broad daylight is confronted by another instance in which appearances deceive. His impression has been that because he is "wasting" daylight war plants must be doing the same.

It is also to be supposed that the saving of power by continuing the daylightsaving schedule is important. Otherwise the artificial timing device would be abandoned, for it is far from being popular. Tricking people into getting out of bed before they want to is no kind of a vote-catching dodge. That wouldn't be done if the gain in war output wasn't worth while. In which case, convenience doesn't count, and shouldn't.

For Better Marriages

A bill to amend the Solemnization of Marriage Act is before the Alberta Legislature. The amendment purports to enact that both men and women contemplating matrimony must produce a certificate from a qualified physician showing that y have submitted to a blood test within I days prior to the application for a marriage license, and that they are free of venereal disease.

This is a progressive and enlightened step and one which will have the approbation of most Alberta people. Under a form of government which depends for its success upon the quality and efficiency of its individual citizens, it is highly important that those factors which operate against the production of intelligent and healthy children should be wiped out.

But while the Solemnization of Marriage Act is open for the insertion of this amendment, it might not be amiss to consider other particulars in which the marriage law of Alberta might be improved.

A factor which is even more inimical to happy and stable marriages than syphilis is the haste and emotional confusion in which many marriages are contracted. Young people who are uttelly incompatible temperamentally and culturally frequently rush into matrimony on the basis of a purely physical attraction.

It is obvious that there should not only machinery in the Solemnization of Marriage Act to enforce a much longer interval between the issuance of a license and the performance of the ceremony, but also some provision whereby candidates for marriage should be required to furnish references from responsible people as to their fitness to enter the most trying and demanding of all states.

The Legislature would do well to consider these points in addition to the excellent amendment now being made.

The 20,000 man garrison on Iwo Jima has dwindled to a few hundreds. Few have been taken prisoners and not many can have escaped by sea through the cordon of warships and patrol planes. The rest are dead. There at least the Jap soldier has kept the traditional obligation to die rather than surrender. His bravery is to be respected. But he deserved a better cause

Dortmund, second city of the Ruhr, has a new claim to distinction. It was the target of the heaviest bombing attack of the war, when R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. planes loosed 5,600 tons of explosives on it in a single raid. One of the railways which centered there would have required 140 freight cars to shift that tonnage. They probably are not handling traffic any

A returned airman says Allied troops in Burma had to use boats which had helped in the evacuation of Dunkirk, in order to get across the Irrawaddy river. The boats were old and rickety and many of them went to pieces. He cites this as illustration of the lack of equipment of Allied troops in that theatre. The point should be noted by those who have supposed that our war effort can be shut down when Hitlerism is finished.

CANADIANS must have let Moose Jaw's Canucks know they were in a hockey game last night and even though the Edmonton juniors lost out in the third game of the western semi-final series at the Saskatchewan town, they appear to have given a good account of themselves.

According to Hall Dean, regular . conductor of this column who is looking in on the series. Canadians made a great showing, but as in the two games in the Edmonton arena, they were unable to match the finishing skill of the 'mighty midgets."

Now it's win Thursday night or pack up for the season. Keep your SIDELIGHTS . . .

HERE AND THERE

ALTHOUGH hockey is still the main topic around sportland, baseball is sneaking around the corner and practices soon will be in full swing. That is if the weatherman continues to behave. It looks like Dodgers, Yanks, Signals and Arrows in the senior circuit again this summer. The U.S. Yanks, champions of the local loop for the past two seasons started regular workouts in the big gym at the Air Base Monday afternoon and will continue until the boys can get down to business of real practice. The snow has disappeared from Renfrew Park, scene of many rousing ball games, and practices are looked for in the near future—by the middle of April anyway.
